

International Conference on Linguistic Evidence

Conference programme (Version 27.01.06)

Wednesday 1 February 2006

17.00-20.00 Registration in the foyer of the Brechtbau (Neuphilologikum) Wilhelmstraße 50

Thursday 2 February 2006

08.00-09.00	Registration and coffee in the foyer of the Brechtbau (Neuphilologikum) Wilhelmstrasse 50
9.00-9.20	Opening remarks, announcements
9.20-10.20	Guest speaker I: Steven Bird (University of Melbourne, University of Pennsylvania): Querying linguistic databases
10.20-10.55	Ruth Kempson (King's College London), Ronnie Cann (Edinburgh University) &, Matthew Purver (CSLI, Stanford University): Grammar formalisms and explanations of dialogue
10.55-11.20	Mid-morning break
11.20-11.55	Martin Hackl & Ben Acland (Pomona College): Distinct verification strategies for 'most' and 'more than half: Experimental evidence for a decompositional analysis of quantificational determiners
11.55-12.30	Oliver Bott & Janina Radó (University of Tübingen): Quantifying quantifier scope: A cross-methodological comparison
12.30-14.00	Lunch break
14.00-15.00	Guest speaker II: Joan Bresnan (Stanford University) Is knowledge of syntax probabilistic? Experiments with the English dative alternation
15.00-15.35	John Nerbonne & Wilbert Heeringa (University of Groningen) : The geographic distribution of linguistic variation
15.35-16.00	Mid-afternoon break
16.00-16.35	Laurie A. Stowe ¹ , Jack Hoeksema ¹ , Rob Hartsuiker ² , & Magda Devos ² (1: University of Groningen, 2: University of Gent): Perceiving dialects: A magnitude estimation study
16.35-17.10	Chris Sapp (Indiana University / University of Vienna): Focus and

18.00-20.00	Poster reception: see list of presenters below
17.10-17.55	Katrin Axel & Tanja Kiziak (University of Tübingen): Contributing to the extraction/parenthesis debate: Judgement studies and historical data verb order in Early New High German: Historical and contemporary evidence

Friday 3 February 2006

9.00-9.05	Announcements
9.05-10.05	Guest speaker III: Harald Clahsen (University of Essex) Psycholinguistic perspectives on grammatical representations
10.05-10.40	Anke Karabanov, Peter König & Peter Bosch (University of Osnabrück): Eye-tracking evidence for online processes in the comprehension of referential expressions
10.40-11.00	Mid-morning break
11.00-11.35	Shravan Vasishth (University of Potsdam): On the proper treatment of spillover in real-time reading studies: Consequences for psycholinguistic theories
11.35-12.10	Thomas Hoffmann (University of Regensburg): Corpus and experimental data as corroborating evidence: The case of preposition placement of English relative clause
12.10-12.45	Philip Hofmeister, Florian Jaeger, Inbal Arnon, Ivan Sag & Neal Snider (Stanford University): Locality and accessibility in 'wh'-questions
12.45-14.30	Poster lunch: see list of presenters below.
14.30-15.30	Guest speaker IV: Mark Steedman (Edinburgh University) Evidence for a semantics and pragmatics of intonation
15.30-16.05	Holger Wunsch (University of Tübingen): Anaphora resolution: What helps in German
16.05-16.30	Mid-afternoon break
16.30-17.05	Stefan Müller & Detmar Meurers (University of Bremen, The Ohio State University): Corpus evidence for syntactic structures and requirements for annotations of tree banks
17.05-17.40	Louisa Sadler, Doug Arnold & Aline Villavicencio (University of Essex): Portuguese: Corpora, coordination and agreement
17.40.18.15	Ilona Steiner (University of Tübingen): Coordinate structures: On the relationship between parsing preferences and corpus frequencies
From 19.00	Dinner in the Knights' Hall of the Castle.

Saturday 4 February 2006

9.00-9.05	Announcements
9.05-10.05	Guest speaker V: Janet Pierrehumbert (Northwestern University, Illinois) Phonological learning and phonological learnability
10.05-10.40	Denisa Lenertová & Stefan Sudhoff (University of Leipzig): Corpus data vs experimental results as prosodic evidence: On the case of stressed 'auch' in German
10.40-11.00	Mid-morning break
11.00-11.35	Roland Meyer (University of Regensburg): Patterns of prominence in Russian Yes-No questions
11.35-12.10	Caroline Féry, Stavros Skopeteas & Ruben Stoel (University of Potsdam): Questionnaire and topological data on information structure
12.10-13.30	Lunch break
13.30-14.05	Britta Stolterfoht, Lyn Frazier & Charles Clifton (University of Massachusetts, Amherst): Adverb position and information structure in processing English
14.05-14.40	Daniel Hardt (Copenhagen Business School): Locality and sloppy identity: Evidence from a web survey
14.40.15.00	Mid-afternoon break
15.00-15.35	Elena Dieser (University of Tübingen): Disparities between comprehension and production in the early stages of bilingual lexical development
15.35-16.10	Kirsten Gengel (University of Stuttgart): Object shift and pseudogapping in the Scandinavian languages

Poster reception Thursday 2 February 18.00-20.00

Augustin Speyer (University of Pennsylvania): Filling the vorfeld in German written and oral discourse

Bettina Schrader (University of Osnabrück): How does morphological complexity translate? A cross-linguistic case study of word alignment

Bettina Zeisler (University of Tübingen): The human factor or when the evident is not seen: Language archaeology and other fieldwork in Ladakh

Dirk Elzinga (Brigham Young University, Utah): Analogy and English adjective comparison

Hedde Zeijlstra (University of Tübingen): Emphatic multiple negation in substandard Dutch

Jantien Donkers & Laurie Stowe (University of Groningen): Wh-questions and the nature of D-linking: a processing perspective

Katharina Hartmann & Malte Zimmermann (Humboldt University, Berlin): Different perspectives on focus in Hausa

Laura Kallmeyer (University of Tübingen): Comparing lexicalized grammar formalisms in an empirically adequate way: the notion of generative attachment capacity

Mareile Knees (University of Jena): A corpus study about the anaphoricity of the German adverbial proform 'danach'

Ondene van Dulm (Stellenbosch University): Structural aspects of English-Afrikaans intrasentential code switching: Experimental techniques

Patricia Amaral (The Ohio State University): Evidence from sentence processing for the semantic-pragmatic properties of approximative adverbs

Remus Gergel (University of Tübingen): Systematic silence on the rise: Diachronic developments in the licensing of verb-phrase ellipsis

Sandra Pappert (1), Johannes Schliesser (1), Dirk P. Janssen (2), & Thomas Pechmann (1) (1 University of Leipzig, 2 University of Kent): Argument-specific cues to syntactic structure in verb-final sentences: Corpus and psycholinguistic evidence

Serge Doitchinov (University of Tübingen): The acquisition of the reversed timeordering in 'weil' (`because') sentences by preschool children: A case study

Daniela Marzo, Verena Rube & Birgit Umbreit (University of Tübingen): Lexical motivation and speaker judgements

Yves Sando (University of Freiburg): Acoustic correlates of new and given information in Cameroon English (CamE) intonation

Poster lunch Friday 3 February 12.45-14.30

Anke Lüdeling (Humboldt University, Berlin), Marco Baroni (University of Bologna) & Stefan Evert (University of Osnabrück): Need and competition in word formation and where to find data to study them

Antti Arppe (University of Helsinki): On the limits of generalizing from quantitative, corpus-based evidence in a morphologically rich language

Aria Adli (New York University): Grammaticality judgments with auditory stimuli: Taking into account intonation and interpretation of French wh-in-situ

Beata Trawiński (University of Tübingen): Using corpus statistics in the modeling of linguistic paradigms

Boštjan Dvořák (ZAS, Berlin) & Ilse Zimmermann (Potsdam University): Imperative subordination in Slovenian

Carola Trips (Stuttgart University): Linguistic evidence and diachronic truth

David Bowie (University of Central Florida): Adult linguistic stability and the gathering of linguistic evidence

Gaëtanelle Gilquin (University of Louvain): Towards an empirically grounded definition of prototypes

Hedde Zeijlstra & Doris Penka (University of Tübingen): Typological implications as linguistic evidence

Heide Wegener (Potsdam University): Statistical evidence for the role of phonology in the distribution and motivation of the linking element -s in German

Heike Zinsmeister (University of Tübingen): Treebank data as linguistic evidence - Coordination in Tüba-D/Z

Jakob Maché (University of Vienna): Unravelling the secret of German modal verbs

Jieun Joe Kiaer & Ruth Kempson (King's College London): Incremental parsing and the architecture of grammar: Evidence from multiple long-distance dependency resolution in Korean

Jutta Hartmann (Tilburg University): Wh-movement with 'there': Experimental evidence

Markus Bader & Jana Häussler (University of Konstanz): Word-order variation: Why corpus and judgment data do not go hand in hand

Philipp Obrist (University of Tübingen): Blind data vs. philology: Evidence in historical linguistics

Stella Neumann & Silvia Hansen-Schirra (University of the Saarland): Quantitative and qualitative analyses of explicitation in translations

Tanja Anstatt (University of Tübingen): A comparison of narrative structures: Use of aspect-tense in storytelling by bilingual Russian-German children

Timm Lichte & Jan-Philipp Soehn (University of Tübingen): The retrieval and classification of negative polarity items using statistical profiles
